Introduction

In 1998, the Arizona legislature approved the Title XXI State Plan for Child Health Insurance Program, referred to as KidsCare, providing health coverage to children under age 19 in families with incomes limited to 150% of the federal poverty level (FPL) (AHCCCS Office of Intergovernmental Relations, 2004). In 1999, the income threshold was raised to 200% of the FPL. Proposition 204 (Arizona Legislature, 2000) was passed by Arizona voters in 2000, providing funding for the health care costs associated with expanding the eligibility limit for AHCCCS coverage to 100% of the FPL.

Effective June 15, 2010, the State of Arizona will suspend health care coverage for children insured by KidsCare, the Arizona version of the State Children's Health Insurance Program (SCHIP). AHCCCS coverage for adults and children eligible under voter passed Proposition 204 will also be suspended effective January 1, 2011. For the purpose of this report, the most recent enrollment numbers available within these two programs were used. The two actions by the state legislature will affect a total of 38,574 KidsCare children (AHCCCS, 2010) and 289,446 (AHCCCS Data Warehouse, 2009) Proposition 204 adults and children. The sudden removal of health insurance coverage from approximately 328,022 persons can be expected to have a significant impact on the newly uninsured individuals and on health care organizations in Arizona. The first steps toward a completed evaluation of the probable impacts on health care organizations include the following:

1. Describe the number, demographic characteristics, and geographic distributions of the newly uninsured to provide an estimate of the distribution of the potential burden on health care organizations in different parts of Arizona.
2. Describe the number of visits for healthcare made in recent months by the newly uninsured while they were covered by KidsCare or Proposition 204 to different types of health care providers as an estimate of the likely need by the uninsured for healthcare.
3. Estimate the costs of the healthcare visits used by the affected individuals as an estimate of the potential costs of uncompensated care for the newly uninsured likely to be incurred by health care organizations in Arizona.

The objective of this report is to provide a factual basis for planning by health care providers and others with interests in health and health care to meet the challenges of a large increase in the uninsured population in Arizona. The results were prepared in a very short time at the request of the sponsors.

The results do not include estimates of the manner in which health care utilization among the newly insured will shift in response to the loss of insurance. It is likely, for example, that the patterns of care for many conditions will shift from the use of primary care physicians to the use of emergency departments. There may also be a decline in the near term in the health care utilization by the newly uninsured, which is generally believed to result in subsequent, more costly treatment for the effects of failing to treat health care problems in their early stages.

Another issue which is not addressed is the effect of the legislative changes on persons who were not enrolled in KidsCare or in AHCCCS under 204 eligibility but would have been enrolled in either program had they been continued.

There has been considerable lobbying by advocacy groups to convince the legislature to rescind its decision to end KidsCare. Should that action occur, the estimates of the newly uninsured children will not apply. To date, there does not appear to be the same level of activity regarding the Proposition 204 population, but that may simply reflect the later date of the legislated cutoff. This report does not analyze these issues or predict the impact on persons who would have joined the ranks of the insured under one of these programs had they continued or the potential increases in applications and enrollments that could result if the programs are reinstated. The results of the report must, therefore, be understood within these constraints.

Concepts and Definitions

Eligibility for Benefits

KidsCare enrollees are defined as those persons with a Capitation Rate Code in the AHCCCS data base at the time of the visit equal to either of the following:

- 6011
- 6012
- 6013
- 6014
- 6015

Based on consultation with AHCCCS personnel, Proposition 204 enrollees will be defined as those persons with an Eligibility Key Code as follows:

- 232
- 372
- 375
- 395
- 415
- 461
- 463
- 467
- 471
- 472
- 481
- 491
- 585
- 587
- 595
- 908
- 911
- 916
- 921

Geographic Location

AHCCCS records the two most recent addresses for each patient. Thus, persons who move during the twelve months in the analysis period will have different zip codes for different health care encounters. A complete analysis of migration during the analysis period is possible, but outside the scope of the time frame required for this proposed project. We will, therefore, assign each patient to the most recent recorded zip code on the data file. This assumption will produce two effects, namely: (1) a person who sees providers in more than one zip code will appear to have received services in only one zip code and (2) the service/provider information/utilization and payments for a person who has moved from zip code A to zip code B during the period January –June 2009 will be assigned to zip code B.

Health Care Providers

The data include detailed information on the types of services provided to patients (e.g. CPT codes) and the place of service as well as provider information. For the purposes of this project, we will classify providers into nine exclusive categories, namely: Hospital Inpatient, Hospital Outpatient, Hospital Emergency Department (ED), Community Health Center (CHC), Community Mental Health Center, Dentist, Primary Care Physician, Specialist, and “Other” (Appendix 1).

The AHCCCS “place of service code” was used to define Hospital Inpatient, Hospital Outpatient, Hospital Emergency Department (ED), Community Health Center (CHC), and Community Mental Health Center. If the “place of service code” did not include the previous four categories, then the provider type and specialty information were used to define physician specialty.

A primary care physician, as defined by AHCCCS, is any provider whose specialty was listed as family practice, general practice, internal medicine, adolescent medicine, preventative medicine, or pediatrics. Specialists include the physician specialties not listed above, excluding dentists. Services provided by individuals or organizations that were not included in any other category are listed as “Other”. The “Other” providers include medical transportation, nurses, durable medical equipments and many other types of services. The provider specialty description (Appendix 2) and provider type (Appendix 3) were used to categorize provider specialty. A total of 6,737 KidsCare physicians and 13,517 Proposition 204 physicians provided health care. There were 2,007 KidsCare physicians and 3,687 Proposition 204 physicians without specialty description. We were able to identify the specialties for 1,993 of the KidsCare physicians and 3,624 of the Proposition 204 physicians through the following search efforts: 1) provider type information, 2) CHiR health care workforce data base, 3) manually internet searching.

The billing conventions undercount the utilization of CHCs, with claims indicating a visit to a physician even though the visit occurred in a CHC. Physician AHCCCS IDs were obtained by the Arizona Association of Community Health Centers from each of the CHCs and used to produce a second set of results that more accurately classifies the number of patients that are served in each of the CHCs.

Utilization

The unit of utilization is a “visit”, defined as an inpatient stay, a visit to outpatient facility, a visit to an ED that does not result in an inpatient admission, a visit to a community mental health center, a visit to a CHC, a visit to a primary care physician, a visit to a specialist, a visit to a dentist, or a visit to a provider not included in the previous categories. An inpatient stay is treated as one visit regardless of the length of stay. Differences in lengths of stay among inpatient visits are, however, reflected by differences in the estimated costs of treatment.

Payments

The data on costs of care include charges, allowed amounts and payments as well as some adjustment values that apply to relatively few patients. The payments made by managed care plans for services to Proposition 204 and KidsCare enrollees are the amounts recorded in the AHCCCS data that are received by CHiR. The costs to AHCCCS for the capitated cases are the amounts paid to the managed care plan contractors. The payments to the providers do not include the administrative expenses of the managed care plans which are, strictly speaking, part of the costs of health care for their enrollees. Our estimates of the expenditures for the care of the beneficiaries use the “allowed amount”, defined as: “The AHCCCS Allowed amount before it is reduced by Other Insurance, Medicare, Share of Cost (SOC) or Discount/Penalty” (AHCCCS IM Common Field Mapping for Encounters: ALLOW-AMT).

Data

Arizona HealthQuery (AZHQ) is a community health database containing health information on millions of individuals who have received health care in Arizona. The AZHQ database includes health care transactions on AHCCCS members, patients receiving inpatient or emergency department care in the state, and patients receiving care from safety net providers including county clinics and federally qualified CHCs in Arizona. It also includes Arizona Department of Health Services' (ADHS) vital statistics and immunization data. AZHQ merges data on a patient level across insurers and providers over time. The database includes demographic information and health care utilization information including diagnoses, sites of care, medical procedures, past medical conditions, medications, and laboratory testing.

One of the advantages of the AZHQ data warehouse is that individual patients with selected characteristics can be tracked over time, providing a record of their care, within the limits of the coverage by the data. Coverage of health care payers and providers is not universal but coverage of the safety net organizations that are the mainstay of the uninsured is nearly universal. The largest gaps in the data are treatments in private physician offices that are insured by private carriers. The only private carrier that contributes data to AZHQ is Health Net of Arizona, Inc.

The use of AZHQ data for research projects requires, with few exceptions, the permission of the data partners whose data will be used in the project. Permission for the use of AHCCCS data for this project was obtained from AHCCCS.

AHCCCS data are submitted to CHiR with a lag to permit AHCCCS to finalize information and clean the data. Once received, the AHCCCS data are further cleaned and converted to be merged into the AZHQ data system. The most recent data that can be used within the time constraints of the proposed project are for January 1, 2009 - June 30, 2009.

The analysis is based on the number of enrollees who used covered services during the period January 1, 2009 - June 30, 2009. The numbers of visits, payments and other summary measures will be estimated for the calendar year 2009 by simply doubling the totals. There were approximately 45,820 children enrolled in KidsCare as of January 1, 2010 (AHCCCS Population Highlights January 2010, 2010), a decline from 61,201 children as of January 1, 2009 (AHCCCS Population Highlights January 2009, 2009).

Since our data include a larger number of children than the current KidsCare population (March 2010), it will be necessary to adjust the cost and utilization results to approximate the decline in the covered population. It will not, however, be an exact measure.

Results

The results are presented separately for the KidsCare cohort and for those who were eligible under Proposition 204. The estimates are subject to the following constraints:

- One set of results relies on claims which were identified as being submitted by a CHC as the provider. Most services provided within CHCs are, however, classified according to the provider (e.g. physician, dentist, etc.) even though the services were delivered within a CHC. The County wide counts by zip code which are the first sets of results are based on the billing coding. Thus the totals for the CHCs reflect only the small minority of services where the CHC is listed as the provider. To more accurately reflect patient volume within the CHCs, a second set of results is presented which includes counts of all services provided within each CHC individually.
- The estimates represent the levels of health care utilization and the distribution of the services and payments among provider groups for both groups of patients when they were insured.
- In order to link interim billing from hospitals, hospital claims with dates of service within a three day range with the same member ID, place of service, and provider ID were consolidated as one, unique visit. Thus, our estimates of utilization for outpatient and ED visits are underestimated, but it avoids double counting that could result from the timing of submitting bills.
- The most recent detailed data on visits by zip code and provider are for January 1, 2009 - June 30, 2009. Our estimates for 2010 assume that the patterns of utilization applied in March 2010 as well. Given the decline in the number of patients covered, this necessary assumption biases the utilization estimates upward by assuming that the patterns of care remained the same between the 2009 data and the 2010 data.
- The results provide a description of the numbers of persons at risk, their utilization of services and the costs which would potentially be shifted to CHCs and other health care providers if the legislation is not rescinded.
- Previous research by CHiR and others shows that children in Arizona who are uninsured are, all else equal, much more likely to receive their primary care in a hospital ED than insured children whose primary care is more often delivered in a primary care setting (Johnson & Rimsza, 2004; Johnson, Rimsza, & Johnson, 2006).
- It is to be expected, therefore, that the elimination of AHCCCS coverage will alter the distribution of service use among provider groups.
 - A corollary to the previous statement is that the volume of health care services as well as the proportion of former enrollees who use any health care service is likely to decline, at least in the short run. Thus, the predicted impact on providers in terms of uncompensated care may be less in the short run than would be true if current levels of insured utilization are assumed to apply.
 - Some of those who lose coverage may be able to replace it with private insurance. It is sometimes argued that many Medicaid recipients could obtain private insurance. There is some evidence that small increases in premiums induce disproportionately large reductions in enrollments (Dunkelberg & O'Malley, 2004; Ku & Coughlin, 1999/2000), but evidence on the subsequent insurance status of those who dis-enrolled is lacking.

- o There are also a variety of supplements paid to providers that are not directly related to the payments to providers by the managed care contractors.
- o The AHCCCS data, at any point in time, include some payments that are subject to subsequent corrections or other adjustments although most of the changes should be included since the data that AHCCCS provides to CHiR includes a lag time to permit revisions.

Summary & Implications

This report is neither an analysis of the immediate effects of ending the two health insurance coverages, nor a prediction of longer term effects. It is, instead, designed as a reference document that contains detailed descriptions of the numbers of patients at risk, the services they utilize and the costs (allowed amounts) for those services. By detailing the results for small geographic areas (zip codes), CHCs and other affected providers are provided the raw materials needed to develop strategies for dealing with the fallout from the end of either or both programs.

Previous research on what was then a hypothetical scenario of a 10% reduction in KidsCare coverage predicts, however, a significant increase in the total costs of health care for the affected children as care is shifted from primary care providers to less appropriate settings. (Johnson, TJ et al., 2006; Johnson WG et al., 2004) There is no previous research on the Proposition 204 beneficiaries that includes predictions of shifts of care from primary care to other settings. It does seem likely, however, that much of the costs of health care for them as well will be shifted as uncompensated costs of care to emergency departments and CHCs. To the extent that persons currently served by CHCs continue as the center's patients, the services and allowed amounts provide estimates of the burden of uncompensated care that will be imposed on the centers. There is, to our knowledge, no previous examination of the impact of eliminating insurance coverage on this scale that includes estimates of the burden on CHCs or other safety net providers.

The results presented in this report are an example of the capacity of the AZHQ data system to provide a large amount of information on a specific population in Arizona in a very short time period. The rapid turn-around is possible because of ongoing data sharing by the AZHQ data partners, which includes several Arizona CHCs and AHCCCS and the investments made to create AZHQ by St. Luke's Health Initiatives, the Flinn Foundation and Arizona State University.

KidsCare Results

The results in the following tables and figures are based on data collected in the AHCCCS data warehouse for the period January 1- June 30, 2009 and the online enrollment statistics for KidsCare (AHCCCS, 2010). From this data, the number of KidsCare visits during a six-month period for 2010 were estimated. Distributions by county are published by AHCCCS for both time periods.

Note: The March 2010 percents were determined by taking the percentage distribution of KidsCare enrollees by zip code for each county in 2009 and applying the percentages to the March 2010 number for each county.

Note: Zip codes with less than 100 enrollees were excluded from this map.

Distributions by zip codes for 2009 are obtained from the AHCCCS data. Distributions for 2010 are estimated by applying the 2009 percentage distributions to the 2010 totals by county. In Tables 2 and 3 below, the estimated number of visits by provider was rounded to the nearest whole number for each zip code. Thus, in each County's table, the sum of all visits for each zip code may differ by one from the sum of all visits by provider.

Table 2. Estimated Number of KidsCare Enrollees and Their Health Care Visits during a Six-month Period by County, Provider and Zip Code, 2010

NOTE: The distribution of services by zip code and county undercounts the visits provided within CHC settings. The distribution of services within CHCs is described in CHC specific Table 4.

Note: Two enrollees are missing an indication of zip code and therefore the county of residence cannot be determined. Online enrollment statistics for Proposition 204 enrollees is not published by AHCCCS.

Figures 4-6 show the mapped distribution of Proposition 204 enrollees by zip code across the state.

Note: Zip codes with less than 100 enrollees were excluded from this map.

Table 7 and Table 8 show the distribution by county and provider for all visits and payments, respectively. There were 197 patients in the AHCCCS data without an unknown zip code and 2 patients without an indication of zip code, so these patients are excluded from the county listings below.

Table 7. Number of Proposition 204 Visits during a Six-month Period by County and Zip Code, 2009

NOTE: The distribution of services by zip code and county undercounts the visits provided within CHC settings. The distribution of services within CHCs is described in CHC specific Appendix Table 6.
