● Enhance interdisciplinary education and interprofessional team-based training that support integrated behavioral healthcare
● Describe the essential components of team-based care in approaches to care management and care coordination in integrated behavioral healthcare
● Identify workforce development needs and strategies

Conference Description
The 2018 Integrated Health Care (IHC) conference will focus on strategies and techniques to put the team in team-based health care. Recognizing that the highest functioning integrated care practices are those that engage in interdisciplinary collaboration, this conference will focus on innovative approaches to developing the integrated care team. We will present innovative team-based approaches to integrated healthcare that address medical and behavioral conditions, and focus on strategies that transform and coordinate management and clinical healthcare systems through team-based solutions.

Presentation Submission Guidelines
The Doctor of Behavioral Health Program and Arizona State University invite you and your colleagues to submit a proposal to present a session at the upcoming 2018 Annual Conference on Integrated Healthcare. We seek proposals for sessions to be held on Tuesday, March 6 and Wednesday, March 7, 2018.

Presentations should translate evidence-based or best practices research into practical clinical or management applications and skill building in integrated care. Presentations should relate to team-based care in the following clinical or management subject areas.

Topic Areas
Healthcare Management Topics
● Business model sustainability of team-based integrated healthcare solutions (e.g., grants, financials, reimbursement, return on investment)
- EHR, Meaningful Use, documentation, and clinical use of data in collaborative care
- Monitoring metrics: workflows, dashboards, quality, productivity, relative value units across the integrated care team
- PCMH principles
- Interdisciplinary workforce training and development

Clinical Topics
- Interdisciplinary care coordination, care management, and shared care plans
- Culture and team-based care competencies in improving health in populations
- Integrating interdisciplinary, interprofessional medical teams
- Meeting the needs of disenfranchised patients through team-based approaches
- PCMH principles

All presenters will utilize PowerPoint in the presentations and provide specific strategies and techniques to support improved quality of service delivery. Application deadline is 5:00 pm (Mountain Standard Time) on September, 15th, 2017. Lead presenters will be notified of their presentation status on or prior to November 1, 2017.

Conference Attendees
Attendees of the conference will include the following: physicians, health care executives and management, psychologists, social workers, behavioral health providers, marriage and family therapists, counselors, addiction counselors, treatment providers, community advocates, alumni/participants, government officials, Veteran Affairs, Native American Tribal communities, educators, and students.

By submitting this form, you acknowledge that all selected presenters must complete a conference registration fee, even if presenting and not attending other sessions. You also acknowledge that presenters are responsible for all of costs related to travel and lodging and that you may be scheduled to present on either Tuesday, March 6th or Wednesday, March 7th.
